

Dr. Donald G. Cortum of Torrance, prominent young civic leader, will head the Bay Harbor Osteopathic Assn. for the coming year, it was announced yesterday.

Dr. Cortum, who succeeds Dr. Clark B. Walsworth of San Pedro, as head of the osteopathic doctors of the area, is also secretary of the Bay Harbor Osteopathic Hospital board of directors and a member of the executive committee of the new hospital.

He and his staff of officers will take a leading part in the construction of the $1,100,000 Bay-Harbor Osteopathic Hospital to be built at Lomita Blvd. and President Ave. in Harbor City. Plans for the new structure are nearing completion and bids are expected to be opened within the next two to three months, according to Dr. Cortum.

Dr. Otto Frantzych of Gardena will serve as first vice president of the Osteopathic Assn. during the coming year. New officers of the group were inducted at the annual meeting and banquet of the association at the Palos Verdes Country Club. More than 60 osteopathic physicians and surgeons turned out for the annual meeting.

Members of the South Bay Shrine Club will host their wives at a steak dinner and dance in the Elks' clubhouse, Redondo Beach, May 23. Open to all Shriners, music will be provided by Ray Dietrich's orchestra. Further information and reservations are available from Clyde T. Martin, president, or John H. Robertson, secretary.

Student Paper Wins Top Rating For Ninth Time

The El Camino College "Warwhoop," weekly campus newspaper, has been awarded its ninth consecutive All-American award, the school was notified this week.

The "Warwhoop," one of eight newspapers of its class to receive the highest rating, has won its nine awards in three formats—as a five, six, and eight-column paper.

Birchel Barrett of Hawthorne was editor during the period judged for the award. K. Lype O'Dell was commissioner of publications.

Torrance members of the staff included photographers Jesse R. Amado and Bill Robinson; and reporters Vickie Almeida, Al Montoya, and Gary Palmer.

Faculty advisor is W. A. Kamrath.

Court Steel Not Foreign, Chace Told

Charges that foreign made steel was being used in construction of the new County Courthouse under construction on the civic center here were refuted this week by County Engineer John A. Lambie in a letter to Supervisor Burton Chace.

Replying to charges by Councilman Victor Benstead that foreign reinforced steel was being used in the project, Lambie said a check by his engineers, the architect, the testing laboratories, and the contractor showed that the steel came from the Southwest Steel Rolling Mills of Los Angeles and the Judson Steel Co. of San Jose.

The specifications for all country projects require that domestic products and not foreign materials be used, Lambie said.

Teens' Dance Set Tomorrow

A teenage dance at Knights of Columbus Hall in Gardena has been scheduled for tomorrow evening beginning at 7 p.m. The dance is sponsored by the Columbian Squires Circle of Gardena Valley.

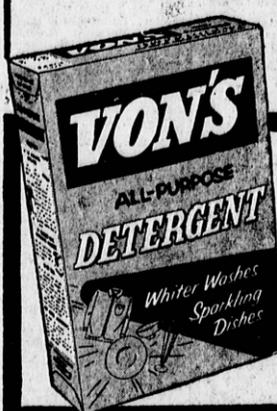

Juke box music will be provided until 11 p.m., Chief Counselor Charles Bell said. Cochairman of the event is Tom Russell. Tickets may be obtained at the door or from any Columbian Squires Circle member.
